NIST Laboratory	NIST Center for Neutron Research (NCNR)
-----------------	---

Discipline	Physics
------------	---------

The researcher's current projects include:

Understanding material properties from the atomic scale to the lab scale using neutron scattering.

The researcher uses the following instrumentation:

Diffraction meters, spectrometers and reflectometers for neutron scattering studies, neutron activation analysis for analytical chemistry applications.

See the full listing at <http://www.nist.gov/ncnr>

The Researcher is proficient in software including:

Instrument specific software
